10:00 Cow PV - why cows love solar panels

"Cow PV" is an innovative approach within agrivoltaics, combining solar power generation with cattle farming on the same land. This system involves the use of solar panels that provide shade for the cows, improving their well-being and potentially increasing agricultural productivity by enhancing soil moisture and pasture quality. How this double harvest works in real life near a factory in sunny Bavaria will be explained by Gaby Symonds.

16:00 Stakeholder management in difficult negotiations

Silos often arise between purchasing and the specialist department. At the same time, sales teams utilise their sometimes very close relationships with the specialist department to gather information and manifest decisions before the purchasing department is involved. By skilfully managing these stakeholders, procurement can very effectively share relevant information and get ahead of the sales team.
